

Internet Safety

The Internet is an exciting tool that puts vast amounts of information at your fingertips. With the click of a mouse, you can buy airline tickets, use research tools, chat with friends or play interactive games.

But there are also risks on the Internet, so it's important to be cyber-smart and make your experience online a safe one. It is critically important that parents supervise their children's Internet use. As we've seen all too often, trusting children are particularly vulnerable to sexual predators and other cyber-criminals.
